

THE YOUTH COLLECTIVE
LOVE BITES PROGRAM

LOVE BiTES is a well-established Respectful Relationships Education Program created by the National Association for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (NAPCAN) for young people aged 11-17 years that has been facilitated in schools across Australia since 2004, and on the Central Coast since 2008.

The four scaffolded workshops create a suite of Respectful Relationships Programs that build upon each other to provide communities with sustainable, localised, whole-of-community programs and strategies that are guided by an ecological theoretical framework, behaviour change theory, children and young person inclusive practice, and culturally inclusive practice.

For more information about LOVE BiTES as part of the RYSS, Youth Collective Programs delivered in Central Coast high schools and resources for parents and young people visit www.ryss.com.au